SEVEN HILLS INFRASTRUCTURE

Seven Hills Infrastructure is a South African engineering company, established in 2025, providing future-ready energy and infrastructure solutions across industrial, data centre, power, and manufacturing environments. The company combines sustainability with precision engineering to deliver reliable, efficient, and scalable systems for mission-critical operations.

With a turnover of ZAR 60 million by February 2026, and expectations to exceed ZAR 100 million in 2026–2027, Seven Hills offers end-to-end EPC and lifecycle services, including the design, construction, operation, and maintenance of integrated energy and infrastructure systems such as solar PV, battery storage (BESS), gas & diesel power generation, and data centre infrastructure. These solutions help clients reduce operating costs, enhance uptime, and lower environmental impact across both industrial and commercial sectors.

Operating primarily within South Africa, the company leverages global technology partners, OEMs, and international engineering standards to provide globally compliant power and renewable energy solutions. Looking ahead, Seven Hills plans to expand operations to Cape Town within the next year.

The vision for Seven Hills is to solve energy challenges for commercial, industrial, and data centre clients by delivering resilient, efficient, and sustainable solutions. Beyond South Africa, Seven Hills extends engineering, EPC, and project support across Southern Africa, leveraging group-backed capabilities and international technology partners.

Seven Hills Infrastructure is led by CEO Dharmendra Pratap Singh, with over 20 years' experience in EPC contracting and sustainable engineering, and Sales Director Ramnath Venkatachalam, with 26 years in sales and business development, building successful industrial and energy businesses in South Africa.
